

The CGF and The Institute for Human Rights and Business, alongside key partners, will team up to bring you this important event that provides an opportunity to explore successes and barriers to eliminating worker-paid fees, leading to debt bondage and often forced labour. We will hear from migrant workers, practitioners and CEOs about what is needed for faster progress.

The Global Forum will bring together global brands, suppliers, recruitment agencies, civil society, academics with governmental representatives to explore means of accelerating collective action towards the “employer pays” model of ethical recruitment where “no worker pays for a job” becomes the normal way to do business.
